6. Transfer the downloaded file to your eReader (see below)

Transferring to your Kindle:

Once you have downloaded the .mobi file, you must transfer it to your Kindle. This can be done either by directly connecting your Kindle to your computer (via USB cable) or by emailing the .mobi file to your Kindle. All Kindles have a unique email address that you can email files to for reading. Most addresses follow the format: FIRSTNAME_LASTNAME@kindle.com You must first set up your Kindle to receive emails from specific email addresses. For more information about transferring files to your Kindle, visit: <http://www.amazon.com/gp/help/customer/display.html?nodeId=200375630>

Transferring to your iPhone/iPad:

You must first have the iBooks app installed on your iPhone or iPad. Then, connect your iPhone/iPad to your computer and start iTunes. Click File → Add to Library. Then select the .epub file to add it to your iTunes library. Select the books you want to sync. The next time you perform a sync, the eBook will appear on your iPhone or iPad in the iBooks app. For more information, visit:
